1. On 10 April 1952, the Kwangsi Provincial Anti-Epidemic Committee, acting in accordance with resolutions of the Central and South China Anti-Epidemic Committee, established 15 epidemic inspection centers. The Kwangsi Provincial Health Department called up personnel from its medical and health organizations to organize epidemic inspection teams. These teams will be responsible for anti-epidemic work along communication lines, railways, bus stations and wharves. The epidemic inspection centers have been established at the following places:

Nanning (108-18, 22-48)	Papu (111-25, 24-29)
Kweilin (110-10, 25-20)	Yulin (110-08, 22-38)
Liuchou (109-16, 24-18)	Pinyang (108-44, 23-18)
Wuchou (111-19, 23-28)	Leihai (109-05, 21-24)
Ch'uanhsien (110-57, 25-59)	Hop'u (109-58, 21-38)
Kueih sien (109-40, 23-02)	Tungshing (107-58, 21-33)
Faise (106-34, 23-55)	Chennankuan (106-41, 21-58)
Wuning (108-15, 23-12)
2. By 10 April, 86 anti-epidemic teams had been organized and over 9,700 medical cadre members had been participating in anti-epidemic work. Also, 1,500 medical personnel had been drawn from troop units by the Kwangsi Military District for similar work.
3. The procedures for anti-epidemic work are:
 - a. To enforce wide-spread propaganda for anti-epidemic measures.
 - b. To establish a permanent organization for anti-epidemic work.
